REFLECTION

AS YOU STEP INTO 2025, REFLECT ON CHERISHED MEMORIES, LEARN FROM PAST EXPERIENCES, AND GREET THE NEW YEAR WITH HOPE, JOY, AND OPEN HEARTS. WELCOME THIS FRESH START WITH GRATITUDE AND EXCITEMENT FOR WHAT LIES AHEAD.

PRACTICE KINDNESS EVERY DAY...

That is our DUTY to ourselves and to others. In this crazy world we live in...the very least we can do is be KIND. Don't judge others based off of what you see, but rather remember we are each individuals dealing with life the best we can!

What's Happenin'

Resolutions That ALL Of Us Can Work On and Be Successful At

We've all made resolutions that aren't really within our ability to stick to and we seem to make them more because it's what others expect our resolutions to be. Here are a few resolutions to work on that are realistically achievable and it's ok that we're a week into the new year.....success starts with YOU!!!

▪ Remember People's Names

If you're like me.....sometimes I appear rude when I don't introduce you to someone I might be with....but reality is I know you, but I'm waiting for you to introduce yourself so that I can hear your name again! Resolve to find a creative way, that works for you, to remember names!

▪ Mindful Single Handling

I'm one of those people who lock my front door and drive away. Only to quickly turn around to go double check that I've really locked the door. Work on removing the checking/second guessing and focus on being better at mindful single handle tasks.

▪ Less Opinions, More Curiosity

Guess what!?!? We aren't right about everything (shock, I know). Work on not having to hold in your opinion by being less argumentative. It's ok to say, "I don't know" more often and approach the ideas and words of others with a spirit of curiosity.

▪ Say YES

When you say YES more often, you have the opportunity to be rewarded with the adventures that a yes could bring. Saying NO all the time gives you a sense of safety, but hinders you from experience.

▪ Listen More Than Talk

Ugh....it's hard. But spend more time listening instead of constantly thinking of what you are going to say. You will be surprised at the knowledge you gain.

▪ Take The Stairs

Incidental exercise is a great way to feel better.

▪ Do What YOU Want

Find ways (like these resolutions) to do what makes YOU happy. Ditch the ideal that society has your best interest at heart....usually it just creates more negative energy and self-destruction.

pm. Join Deschutes Land Trust and wildlife biologist Aaron Bott to take a closer look at wolves and how they interact with the landscape of Central Oregon. Wolves are one of North America's most iconic animals, occupying a unique and complex role in the natural world. In the last few decades, Oregon has experienced the gradual recolonization of wolves, representing a notable shift in natural systems. These top predators are deeply connected to the lands they inhabit and the other animals that sustain them, exerting influences that are both small and far-reaching. Aaron will explore wolf biology and ecology, focusing on their natural history, adaptations, and roles and behaviors in the natural world within the context of Oregon's recovering wolf population.

Historic short stories about Oregon's famous ghost town, Shaniko.

Fun and informational "corner". ~ Submitted by Debra Holbrook

Shaniko & Transportation (part 1)

Excerpt from Shaniko Remembered by Robert Altermatt

"When the Columbia Southern Railroad arrived at Shaniko, transportation and communication requirements exploded.

Farm products moved to the rail head, merchandise arrived for all Eastern Oregon. Passengers arrived and continued to their ultimate destination. U.S. Mail and Western Union telegrams were routed through Shaniko.

Grain and wool arrived at the rail head for shipping to The Dalles, Portland and beyond. Incoming trains brought barbed wire, canned vegetables, fence posts, pipe, and lumber for the outlying land.

And the outlying land was large: Bend, Fossil, Prineville, Antelope, Ashwood, Mitchell, a 10,000 square mile area received supplies funneled through Shaniko."
